Multiple Intelligences and Motivating Students

with Ruth Schachter, instructor at CAJE and recent graduate of the Shalom Hartman Institute Melamdim program

How do we address the different types of learners in our classroom? This workshop will include a discussion of Howard Gardner's theory of multiple intelligences and how this might influence the Jewish religious school experience. Moreover, we will use this theory as a springboard for a discussion on how to motivate learners and stimulate learning in the classroom.

TCP: 1 credit in EDUCATION: Teaching Methodology—Motivating Students or Multiple Intelligence

Classroom and Curricular Organization with Jodi Granok, instructor at Shaare Emeth and owner of Organizing Magic, LLC

Is your classroom organized? What about your curriculum? How do the families of your students know what you are teaching? Do you create weekly goals? In this session, we will share best practices while making a concrete plan for the rest of the year. And, you will learn how to increase and strengthen lines of communication between you and your students' families.

Bringing Israel into the Classroom

with Ruth Schachter, instructor at CAJE and recent graduate of the Shalom Hartman Institute Melamdim program

There are a myriad of ways in which both teachers and students engage with Israel. This workshop will allow us as educators to better articulate our own attitudes and ideas, as well as brainstorm ways to bring in meaningful Israel encounters to the supplementary school experience.

Want Your Lessons to be More Engaging? Use Art, Picture Books, and Hands-on Activities in the Classroom

with Michelle Rosenberg, instructor at Shaare Emeth

As the saying goes, 'Art is all around us!' In its many forms it presents fantastic opportunities for discussion, focused language work (including learning Hebrew), and skills-based activities. This class will give you a huge bag of "tricks" to help teach those skills, concepts and awareness in a creative, hands-on manner!
